Dr. Tim Maggs has been in practice for 39 years, and now specializes in the evaluation, care and treatment of the middle and high school athlete. Dr. Maggs is currently the Director of Sports Biomechanics for Christian Brothers Academy in Albany, N.Y., and continues to educate the families of CBA about the importance of biomechanics with his Structural Management® Program.

Dr. Maggs is also the developer of The Concerned Parents of Young Athletes™ Program, a program designed to raise the awareness of sports biomechanics.

His website, www.CPOYA.com, is now the national website for all chiropractors who wish to be part of The Concerned Parents of Young Athletes™ Providers Network, a Network designed to help chiropractors get into high schools and learn all of the protocols, marketing and knowledge needed to be the best in their communities.

Dr. Maggs' goal is for all middle and high school athletes in this country to receive a biomechanical exam prior to each season, and the key is having qualified Drs. available to provide these exams.
